

Christopher Huff

Biography

Christopher Huff is a Baltimore based artist who received his BFA in painting at the Maryland Institute College of Art (MICA). His work focuses on the boundaries of abstract representational imagery and the effects of his chronic illness, sickle cell anemia. Within his work, Christopher aims to shed light on the complexity of living with a chronic illness while exposing the multi-layered faceted effects of health issues that affect people across the diaspora of sickle cell anemia.

He is a 2018-2020 Elaine L. Schaefer Scholarship award recipient. His work has been exhibited at The Fridge DC Gallery, Washington, DC, Gateway Media Arts Lab, Mt. Rainier, MD, The Maryland Institute College of Art (MICA), Baltimore, MD, the Reginald F. Lewis Museum, Baltimore, MD and most recently was featured on New American Paintings' instagram page for the Social Distance Editor's pick of the day.
